

State of Alaska FY2006 Governor's Operating Budget

Department of Public Safety Search and Rescue Component Budget Summary

Component: Search and Rescue

Contribution to Department's Mission

The mission of the Division of Alaska State Troopers is to preserve public peace, protect life, property, and resources.

Core Services

The Department of Public Safety, Division of Alaska State Troopers, is the only agency in the state that is statutorily mandated to provide search and rescue operations for lost and missing, as well as deceased persons. Unlike criminal law and traffic law enforcement, and investigations where AST provides technical expertise and support to local police departments, AST bears sole responsibility for search and rescue services regardless of location. To perform this function, roles are somewhat reversed. AST receives assistance from local and volunteer agencies, but remains responsible for the search and rescue, even within municipalities and on military reservations. The Department of Public Safety, Division of Alaska State Troopers, manages the following component services and programs.

- Initiating action for the recovery of lost or missing persons.
- Coordinating rescue operations for injured persons; conducting recovery operations for deceased persons.
- Coordinating small and large scale response to search and rescue events including resource management, interagency coordination, and the use of private resources, various agencies, and private persons.
- Reimbursing public and private organizations for resources spent during search and rescue operations.
- Funding aircraft for search and rescue missions.
- Providing logistical support and technical expertise to local law enforcement and volunteer organizations including equipment and search management and planning operational support.
- Training and support of volunteer resources through professional conferences, local seminars, and practical exercises.
- Coordinating resources with the rescue coordination components of the Alaska National Guard and United States Coast Guard to meet the requirements of the National Search and Rescue Plan.
- Management of preventative programs to educate the public on wilderness related risk, and methods to mitigate risk and reduce the loss of life or injury to persons.

PREVENTATIVE MEASURES

The Department of Public Safety, Division of Alaska State Troopers, contracts with qualified instructors to provide avalanche awareness and safety training to the general public. The project goals are to:

- Raise public awareness of avalanche hazards to improve the safety of skiers, snow machine users, and other winter recreationalists in Alaska's backcountry areas.
- Provide tuition-free classes to target audiences, including high school and young adult age groups in various regions of the state, including Anchorage, Fairbanks, the Kenai Peninsula, and Southeast Alaska. Emphasis is given to areas having a history of avalanche-related emergencies.
- Address topics such as recognition of avalanche-prone areas, hazard assessment, use of avalanche transceivers, essential safety equipment, trip planning, and emergency procedures in the event of a life-threatening avalanche.

The department is developing public awareness information including informational brochures and pamphlets, trip plans, and public service announcements geared to prevent search and rescue events.

The goals of search and rescue are to reduce loss of life, minimize injury to Alaska's citizens or visitors, and recover remains of deceased in a timely manner to minimize the grief suffered by the families involved.

FY2006 Resources Allocated to Achieve Results

Key Component Challenges

Because of the environment in which Alaskans live and play, every search and rescue event is potentially an emergency. By definition, search and rescue missions are unpredictable, and require immediate response to assure public safety. If expenses related to search and rescue activity exceed available funds, additional funding has to be located, since searches and rescues do not end with dwindling funds. Search and rescue decisions are not based upon availability of funds, but upon the likelihood of mission success under acceptable search conditions.

Maritime searches involving Coast Guard helicopters are not billed to AST, however under certain circumstances, inland searches involving National Guard helicopters are billed, and are quite expensive. Whenever possible, AST mitigates these expenses through reliance on DPS aircraft and the use of volunteer resources such as the Civil Air Patrol.
