Project Description/Justification:

Eielson Air Force Base is a major traffic generator to and from the Richardson Highway. The existing security check station and the Richardson Highway access are too close to the end of the runway and also presents a number of highway safety problems. In addition, new security requirements frequently cause traffic to back up over one mile onto the Richardson Highway. This project will reconstruct a new Richardson Highway access in conjunction with construction of a new security check station by the Air Force.
