Project Description/Justification:
Federal law requires runway safety areas to be addressed by 2015. The Kodiak Airport runway safety areas are sub-standard. Runway Safety Area projects at certified airports are a national priority and the FAA backs their concerns with discretionary funding. Kodiak is a critical regional airport with a high number of enplanements, a rainy/icy winter environment and a demonstrated need for longer runway safety areas. The airport serves as a regional hub for 11 island communities which generate the majority of passenger and cargo operations at the airport. It also receives significant use by the US Coast Guard for search and rescue operations.
