| In order to maximize the limited resources of the department in the current fiscal environment, the closure of the Criminal Division's Barrow field office will result in a significant savings while minimizing the need for further reductions. The Barrow office is one of the most expensive to operate and also extremely difficult to keep fully staffed, especially due to the shortage of available housing in Barrow. The timing of the expiration of the lease provides an opportunity to re-assess how to most effectively provide prosecutorial services to Barrow given the current fiscal climate. Current vacancies within the Division allowed for minimal impacts to agency staff affected by the closure. The Barrow office has historically been supervised by the Fairbanks District Attorney's Office and a prosecutor in the Fairbanks office will be assigned to work on matters in Barrow. In addition to this, the department plans to supplement its telephonic coverage of court hearings and victim contact for Barrow matters with travel for that prosecutor to Barrow for any trial and also approximately twice a month, in order to conduct grand jury, attend significant hearings such as sentencing and evidentiary, have in-person meetings with law enforcement and victims. | | | | | | | | | | | | |

This project maintains a critical component of the Disability Justice Focus Area by providing foundational knowledge on mental health disorders and cognitive impairments, best-practice and available treatment, and the state's community behavioral health system. Attorneys and support staff typically have little or no training in these areas, yet a significant percentage of individuals they interact with professionally experience mental health disorders and/or cognitive impairments. By providing this training, these attorneys are better equipped to understand the needs of Trust beneficiaries, consider underlying causes for a beneficiary's contact with the criminal justice system, and to set appropriate conditions of bail/probation given the individuals mental and/or cognitive capacity. This will minimize the risk of future costs associated with incarceration and the processing of another criminal case as a result of bail/probation violations, as well as minimizing the risk of criminal recidivism and the associated costs.

In order to maximize the limited resources of the department in the current fiscal environment, the closure of the Criminal Division's Dillingham field office will result in a significant savings while minimizing the need for further reductions. Current vacancies within the division allow for minimal impacts to agency staff affected by the closure.

Several issues have challenged the department to examine how to most effectively provide prosecutorial services to Dillingham given the current budget

| constraints. For instance, grand juries for Dillingham are currently held in Anchorage, meaning frequent travel costs are incurred by the department for both staff and witnesses to travel to Anchorage before the trials can be held in Dillingham. Compounding this issue of travel costs, the new court house in Dillingham was built several miles away from where the Dillingham office is currently located. Historically, the office has been within several blocks of the court house and this new location will require additional costs for vehicles for staff to use because there is no suitable lease space near the new court house. The Dillingham office has historically been supervised by the Anchorage District Attorney's Office. A prosecutor in the Anchorage office will be assigned to work on matters in Dillingham and there will also be a trial team to cover cases. In addition to this, the department plans to supplement its telephonic coverage of court hearings and victim contact for Dillingham matters with travel for that prosecutor to Dillingham for any trial, attend significant sentencing and evidentiary hearings and to have in-person meetings with law enforcement and victims. | | | | | | | | | | | | |

| Create capacity within the Office of Special Prosecutions (OSPA) to conduct major criminal law case work. Though OSPA has previously taken reductions to staff and funding in order to preserve the work done in District Attorney Offices (DAOs), those offices are still forced to decline cases and settle cases for less than they are worth due to budgetary constraints. This will restore some funding to OSPA in order to investigate and prosecute major criminal cases, and potentially open up new sources of revenue in future years as a result. This will provide OSPA with the ability to detect, investigate, deter, and eliminate corruption, fraud, criminal activity, abuses of office and conflicts of interest. It is the intent of the department to investigate misconduct at all levels of state government but particularly in areas sensitive to public at large, such as the use of unlawful force both in and out of custody and the recent rise of in-custody deaths within the state's correctional facilities. This will allow OSPA to investigate fraud perpetrated upon the state through the public contracting process, which may be costing the state substantial amounts of money due to bid-rigging, the improper use of alternative contracting methods and so forth. The results of this work will be two-fold: restoration of public trust in the function of state government and the targeted eradication of wasteful or improper spending of state funds. In order to achieve these results, the department will reduce its vacancy in order to allocate five positions that will be reclassified as appropriate. These positions will be dedicated to this purpose and will work with all stakeholders, especially departments where the risk of fraud and misconduct is greatest. The initial restoration of general funds may be off-set in future years by adding language to settlement agreements to restrict a portion of some settlements to use for these purposes, creating a source of designated program receipts to fund the work. Other settlements resulting from a "false claims act" which would allow private individuals to bring claims against businesses for defrauding the government, most notably in areas of contract construction and Medicaid, could also provide revenue. | | | | | | | | | | | | |

The furloughs will have minimal effects on service delivery both in and outside of the department as both of these days have always been popular dates for leave requests and have been managed well in the past. In the Criminal Division, the anticipated savings from these two mandatory furlough days will result in a savings of $92.5 in FY2017. | | | | | | | | | | | | |

| A number of employees throughout several sections within the Civil Division will be out of the office in leave without pay (LWOP) status for a period of time during FY2016. In lieu of hiring a non-permanent employee during this time, the Civil Division will use the savings from these budgeted positions in LWOP status to account for a portion of the additional unallocated reduction. Although these employee absences are temporary, the Division plans to manage vacancies to maintain their personal services budget, or find other efficiencies to withstand this reduction. | | | | | | | | | | | | |

| The Department of Law will institute two mandatory furlough days for its exempt and partially-exempt employees: the day after the Thanksgiving holiday and the day before the Christmas holiday. The furloughs will have minimal effects on service delivery both in and outside of the department as both of these days have always been popular dates for leave requests and have been managed well in the past. In the Administrative Services Division, the anticipated savings from these two mandatory furlough days will result in a savings of $2.5 in FY2017. | | | | | | | | | | | | |

| The long-standing practice of the department is to move staff across components in order to serve the priorities of the State of Alaska. Future reductions in staffing levels will be determined in conjunction with the need for legal services by the department's client agencies. The department will strive to utilize natural attrition as a mechanism for savings where appropriate. | | | | | | | | | | | | |
